Solid. Precise. Customised.

HÜLLER HILLE has been making machining centres for heavy-duty machining for over 70 years.

Our employees know how precision works in the international market.

Apprenticeship

Industrial management assistant [m|f|d]

Looking for an enjoyable career with prospects? Begin your working life with an apprenticeship at HÜLLER HILLE. The first step in your future career within the production of machine tools. Join the machining specialists.

What you will learn

As part of your apprenticeship you will become familiar with commercial and business-related activities within the company. You will acquire the necessary basic knowledge and learn how to use the most important software programs effectively. You will work in specialist areas such as sales, materials management, warehousing, service and accounting, and will familiarise yourself with processes in detail. The training also includes insights into complex procedures, technical concepts and our product range.

During the apprenticeship you will gradually be given more responsibility to complete tasks on your own and can train to become an energy scout or training ambassador at HÜLLER HILLE.

After your final exam you will join an administrative area of the business, depending on our requirements and your interests.

Your profile

You have good school leaving qualifications from secondary school or have qualified for entrance to higher education. You enjoy planning, organising and working on a computer.

Approaching other people comes easily to you and you respond to unusual situations with confidence. And you know that more is achieved by working as a team than by going it alone. We are looking for reliable team players.

On successfully completing your apprenticeship you will be a versatile industrial management assistant and can also undergo further training.

We look forward to meeting you.
